

Dr Sanjeev Golani

MBBS, FRACS

Laparoscopic, Colorectal and General Surgeon & Endoscopist

Dr Sanjeev Golani is a Colorectal and General surgeon specialising in laparoscopic procedures operating at Norwest Private Hospital, SAN and Hornsby Kuring-Gai Hospital.

Dr Golani completed his general surgical training at Westmead Hospital. After obtaining his fellowship from the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons, Dr Golani undertook further specialist colorectal training in Australia for two years. He then continued his specialist training for a further year with a prestigious appointment as a Senior Colorectal Fellow at the Bristol Royal Infirmary, a training position accredited by the Royal College, Edinburgh, United Kingdom.

Areas of particular interest include:

- Laparoscopic Colorectal surgery – High success rates in performing all cancer resections including rectal cancers laparoscopically.
- Laparoscopic inguinal hernia and cholecystectomy – Routinely performs general surgical operations like laparoscopic inguinal hernia, surgery and laparoscopic cholecystectomy.
- Endoscopy – Trained in advanced endoscopic skills and removal of large polyps endoscopically. Accredited by the Gastroenterological Society of Australia (GESA) to perform endoscopy and colonoscopy.
- Pelvic floor disease – Well trained in inserting Sacral Nerve Stimulators for patients with faecal incontinence and routinely performs laparoscopic ventral mesh rectopexy for rectal prolapse.
- Inflammatory bowel disease – Good knowledge and experience in managing both elective and emergency presentations of inflammatory bowel disease.

Additionally, Dr Golani has a keen interest in minimally invasive surgery including robotic surgery for increased surgical precision.

Dr Golani is actively involved in teaching of younger surgeons and is an ASSET course instructor for the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons.
